

Your Business Stronger

ADP TotalSource®

A more human resource.™

Maximizing Your Success

Imagine being able to reduce the costs and complexities surrounding your employment management tasks. The administrative and compliance burdens that hamper growth. The pressures that come with rising benefits costs. The hurdle of an IT infrastructure that can't grow with you.

Taxes. Payroll. Legislation. Workers' compensation insurance. Compliance. Employee benefits. Get them right, and your business will run smoothly. Get them wrong, and you could face penalties, dissatisfied employees, and possibly even litigation.

Partnering with a Professional Employer Organization (PEO) can help stabilize costs, enhance employee productivity and engagement, and improve the ability to maintain compliance. Shared responsibility means you're not facing the threat and impact of changes to regulatory laws and other compliance requirements alone. Being in business has enough risks. Let us help you handle HR management and employee benefits while you focus on building your business.

Leveraging Success Through The PEO Co-Employment Model.

A co-employment relationship is one in which the employment responsibilities are allocated to both the client and the PEO.

The clients, as employers, continue to have direct control over the day-to-day activities of their business, while the PEO becomes an employer for purposes of human resources administration. This model allows ADP TotalSource® clients to gain more focus, control, and performance from their organization.

82%

of small and mid-size companies that currently work with PEOs recommend this model to their peers, it's clear that PEOs are becoming a tool of choice to relieve compliance and competitive pressures.¹
